The Director of Central Intelligence

Washington, D.C. 20505

31 December 1981

The Honorable Barry Goldwater, Chairman
Select Committee on Intelligence
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Last Spring, requested by the National Security Council, the Intelligence Community undertook a major study of the challenges intelligence would have to meet in the late 1980's and the capabilities that would be required to deal with them. Representatives of the major users of intelligence participated; all elements of the Community took part as well. The study was reviewed with the President by the National Security Planning Group and was endorsed as the framework for planning to rebuild the country's intelligence capability.

The Congress will play a major role in the process of rebuilding over the next few years. Therefore, I have enclosed a copy of the study for your information and use. I expect that it will underlie both Executive Branch planning and Legislative-Executive dialogue for some time.

Sincerely,

B. R. INMAN
Admiral, U.S. Navy
Acting Director
